Benefits

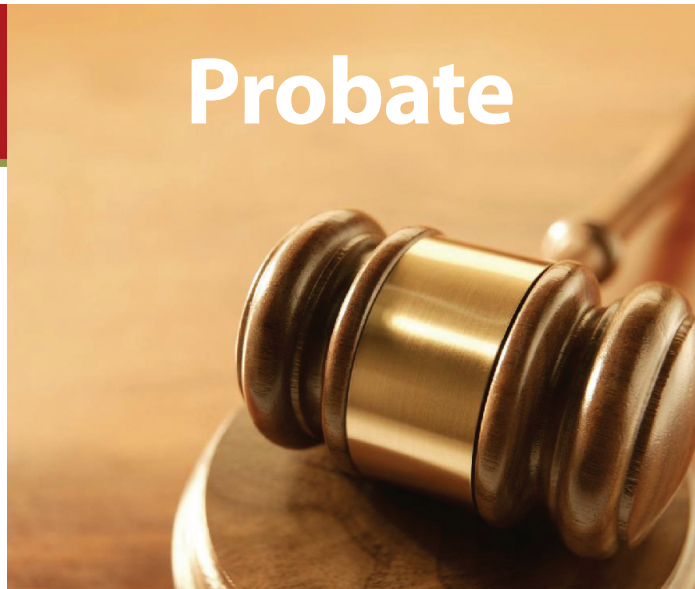

The Benefits Of A Revocable Living Trust Include:

- ★ A Trust can avoid the probate process, thus avoiding the time and expense associated with court proceedings
- ★ A Trust can allow for the quick and easy transfer of property to your loved ones
- ★ A Trust can provide uninterrupted management of your estate should you become incapacitated
- ★ A Trust can provide an organizational section for record keeping and collecting information about your personal and financial affairs
- ★ A Trust may help you avoid or reduce certain estate taxes
- ★ A Trust is a private document (but probate is a matter of public record)
- ★ A Trust can be revoked or amended at any time during your lifetime

For the People Makes Creating A Living Trust Easy By:

- ★ Helping you save the high cost of fees
- ★ Transferring ownership of your real estate to the Trust
- ★ Getting it done in less than a week
- ★ Providing a notary and witnessing service

Probate

Probate – which can be an expensive, time-consuming, and intrusive process – requires:

- Notifying the court of a person’s death
- An inventory of the person’s property and value
- Providing the court with the Last Will and Testament
- Waiting to distribute the remaining property

Unlike a Will, which does not prevent probate, a properly executed and funded Living Trust will allow your loved ones to bypass the probate process.
